“We have dealt with everything and everything else is also sorted. So, when things simmer down and this pandemic is handled, we will conduct the exam later this year in November or December God-willingly,” he added.

Why the need for Special CSS Exam was felt?

A question arises that why the need for the special CSS Exam was felt this year. Here, is the answer as CSS exam is the toughest exam of Pakistan. Every year thousands of the candidates appear but only a few per cent aspirants manage to pass the written exam. Then some are remained in the psychological and in the interview processes. At last, only a meagre number of lucky candidates get an allocation. Therefore, many vacant seats are remained uncovered. However, this year Imran khan decided to fulfil these vacancies by giving an another chance to the serious and competitive aspirants. This exam will be conducted in haste where incompetent aspirant cannot win the battle to prepare for CSS in such a short period of time. There is a need for ambitious officers especially from the backward areas of the country namely Balochistan, Sindh, KPK and FATA/GB. to participate in the establishment department and work for the welfare of the country.
